My dear Harold,

The Committee concerned with the Fellowship in Classics advertised here is not absolutely certain yet whether it will wish to recommend the College to elect now or wait.
If we waited, I suppose Welles might be looking out for teaching work. Do you think (1) that he would be wanting a Fellowship (2) that U.K. would be offering him one (3) that

He would be likely to stand here?

And what is your opinion of him for that sort of work? I have never met him.

I'm told he is that of an arm, how long:
is he otherwise healthy & strong?

Yours
H. M. B. Joseph
