

Dear Mr. Harrod

It was just because I suffer from the same inability to keep out of a scrap where marginal curves are concerned that I asked you to refrain. I didn't want myself nor to spend time on it that ought to go to my work. But why not read the article & make notes against my turning up in Oxford next month (Nov 18 or 20)? Don't bother to write in between. I have decided to leave the article as it is even if you convince me that I have got you wrong. You can always sink me in a Note. But I think we agree on all major points

Yours
Joan Robinson

10/10/32
Joan Robinson

R. Harrod esq
Christchurch
Oxford