Dear Harold

I was glad to hear from you, though your address at King's rather took me by surprise.
Wells is a dear friend of ours, and he loved Eric from a boy onwards. Thank you for letting us know of your discovery of the photo - I hope that your 'job at the House' means that they have given you a fellowship and put you on their regular staff - I have missed any announcement in the Times, and would like to know.
I enclose a copy of an address which I deliver on Monday, at the Aristotelian, when it is subjected to criticism - Since you are apparently engaged in a tour of exploration into Cambridge thought, it may amuse you.

With kind regards

Sincerely yours

A. N. Whitehead
